Wild South Coast Way - Day 2

One of the hidden gems of the trail, you'll start through an old stringy-bark forest, carpeted with delicate ferns and yakkas. A haven of nesting hollows for a variety of birds, including yellow tailed black cockatoos. The trail then opens up briefly for spectacular Kangaroo Island views then we descend into the eucalypt forest of Aaron Creek. We walk the creekline at the bottom of the forest and then ascend alongside rolling hills and farmland, back to the top of the trail, completing this beautiful 6km trail. For dinner enjoy a feast in the cellar of one of the region's most iconic pubs.

Wild South Coast Way - Day 3

Your last day includes a morning walk at the beginning of the Wild South Coast Way, around Blowhole Creek Beach. Start with a truly memorable 4WD experience, traversing a dry and dusty trail to one of the most wild and isolated beaches on the Fleurieu Peninsula. At Blowhole Creek Beach we'll guide you on a narrow part of the trail that skirts the cliff line and provides raw views of Blowhole Creek Beach and Kangaroo Island. After the walk enjoy a picnic hamper of local produce from the back of a Land Rover Discovery accompanied by a cold glass of sparkling wine, before taking a wild beach drive on route back to Adelaide.
